STATE OF NEW YORK.

No. 21.

IN ASSEMBLY, JAN. 4, 1860.

TWELFTH ANNUAL REPORT

Of the Inspectors of State Prisons of the State of New York.

ALBANY, January 3, 1860.

Hon. D. C. LITTLEJOHN,

Speaker of the Assembly:

In compliance with the law, I have the honor to present, through you, to the Legislature, the report of the Inspectors of State Prisons for 1859.

Your ob't servant,

W. BAILEY.

lodging and safe keeping of convicts, was, at the close of the year, as follows:

In the Sing Sing prison,	-----	991
do Auburn do	-----	770
do Clinton do	-----	390
do Female do	-----	81
Total,		-----
		2,232

Showing that there were, at the close of the year, 254 more convicts in the State prisons than there were cells to lodge and keep them, thus devolving on the prison officers the necessity of either putting two convicts in a cell, or lodging some of them in the chapel or hospital of the several prisons, and thus incurring a great hazard of escapes, endangering the health and life of convicts confined in the hospitals, and incurring considerable expense for the extra care which this condition of things required.

It is well known that the Legislature of 1859 made appropriations for the enlargement of the several prisons, such appropriations to be expended under the supervision of the Governor, Lieut. Governor, and Comptroller. These honorable supervisors of the matter in question visited the prisons early in the summer, and after deliberating on the subject, decided to enlarge only the Clinton prison. In accordance with their direction, the prison building at Dannemora has been extended so as to admit of 154 additional cells being put into it, and when this enlargement is completed, the Clinton prison will be capable of keeping 544 convicts, a larger number than will naturally be brought in from that prison district during the coming winter.

But here a difficulty meets us. Even if there were room in the Clinton prison to hold all of the excess at the Sing Sing and Auburn prisons, the Inspectors know of no law under which they can legally effect the removal from these prisons to that. There is but one law under which the Inspectors can remove convicts from one prison to another, and that is, that they (the convicts) "may be more profitably employed." Such is the demand for men at the Sing Sing and Auburn prisons, and that too at fair and remunerating prices, that to remove them would not only involve the loss to the State of the expenses of their removal, but the loss of wages for their services when so removed, for the reason that at the time of writing this report, there is a large number of men at the Clinton prison, which we have been unable to get upon contracts, though it is confidently hoped that this difficulty will, at an early day, be removed, so that all the convicts not wanted for State work in that prison, will be profitably employed on contracts.

But as the case now stands, it appears to us that one thing or another must be done by the Legislature; all of the prisons must be enlarged; or, if a part of them be enlarged, the prison districts must be so changed, or the powers of the Inspectors so altered, that the difficulty here stated may be met. Or, on the other hand, if the powers who have legal control over this subject, persist in forcing on our prison officers the necessity of thrusting scores and hundreds of State prison convicts into our chapels and hospitals, where they can plan insurrection and concoct schemes of rebellion, they must assume the responsibility. Having repeatedly reported the facts, and done all in our power to remedy the difficulty, we must beg to stand acquitted, whatever the result may be.

There are now in the Sing Sing prison, 1,100 male convicts, which is 109 more than there are cells for keeping them. And, as the laws of the State require the courts to so limit the sentences of prisoners, that none of them shall come out during the winter months, there is always a large increase of numbers in our prisons during the winter season; and we feel safe in estimating, that before spring shall open, there will be some 500 more convicts in our prisons, than we shall have cells to keep them in.

This increase of crime must, as a matter of safety to the people, be provided for. We are not prepared to say that the State of New York, as respects her permanent population, is worse than her sister States, or that she is in this age of advancing light and christian civilization, tending backward to barbarism. Our great State is so located territorially, so related to the old world and the new, and so joined and connected with the commerce and migration of the sea and land, that rascality of all grades and from all lands, naturally finds a stopping place with us, and hence a vast amount of depravity, not properly our own, has to be provided for by us.

The expenses of the prisons, for the last year, have been as follows:

Of the Sing Sing prison,	$119,416 07
Auburn do	79,875 07
Clinton do	71,018 67
Female do	9,023 87

Total expenses of the prisons, $279,333 68

The earnings for the last year have been :

Of the Sing Sing prison,-----	$93,997 49
Auburn do -----	72,683 33
Clinton do -----	21,579 06
Female do -----	2,651 64
<hr/>
Total earnings of all the prisons,-----	$190,911 52
<hr/>
Excess of expenses over earnings-----	$88,422 16
<hr/> <hr/>

It should be noted here that quite a large amount drawn from the State Treasury for prison purposes, has been used for building and repairs, and not for ordinary support; and that out of moneys so used, buildings have been erected, and shops burned by fire, re-erected, of permanent interest to the State. For instance, the agent and warden of the Sing Sing prison, during the past year, expended the sum of----- $128,429 94

But of this sum was paid for building and repairs, ----- $9,799 67

For support of female prison over earnings, ----- 6,372 23

16,171 90

Leaving for ordinary support of male prison,----- $112,268 04

Deduct total earnings for the year, ----- 96,649 13

Balance against the prison, ----- $15,618 91

It should be stated here that business at this prison, during the fall and winter months had not fully recovered from the financial revulsion, and wide-spreading embarrassment in monetary affairs of the year before; and that at this prison, during the fall and winter months, there were hundreds of unemployed men who could not be got upon contracts. But with the spring business revived, and there has been a demand for all the men at the disposal of the agent. Hence, it will be seen from the agent's report that the earnings for the male prison for six months, commencing with April and ending with September, amount to... $52,706 07

Expenses for ordinary support of male prison for the same time,----- 51,948 95

Showing a balance in favor of the male prison, as separated from the expense of supporting the female prison, and of buildings and repairs, of,----

$758 12

This shows a better financial condition of this prison than has ever been exhibited before; and we have good reason to hope for still further improvement.

By the sale of such portions of the State farm connected with this prison, as are not required for prison purposes, a sum has been raised and set apart for building and repairs connected with this prison. This sum will save the State Treasury from any drafts of this character for sometime to come, and besides enable the Inspectors to make some very much needed improvements in extending the grounds, making docks, &c.

Contracts have been let at the Sing Sing prison the past year as follows:

To C. H. Woodruff, for the labor and services of 100 men, at 40 cents per day, for the manufacture of cabinet ware.

To Eagle Saw Manufacturing Company, (re-let,) 100* men, at 40 cents per day, for the manufacture of saws.

To James Horner & Co., (re-let,) 150 men, at 40 cents per day, to be employed in the manufacture of files.

To Charles Watson, 150 male convicts, at 40 cents per day, and 70 females, at 15 cents per day, to be employed in the manufacture of hats.

To Peter Hayden 30 men, at 40 cents per day, to be employed in the manufacture of saddlery hardware.

To E. P. & A. Ross, from 100 to 200 men, to be employed in the manufacture of boots and shoes at 40 $\frac{5}{8}$ cents per day for certified shoemakers, and half price per day for uncertified men for the first six months.

The same distinctions are also to be observed in respect to ordinary and extraordinary expenses, in speaking of the Auburn prison, that have been referred to in our remarks on Sing Sing prison.

Expended at the Auburn prison for the last year for ordinary support,	$72,637 61
Earnings for the year,	72,683 33

Balance in favor of the prison,	$45 70
---------------------------------------	---------

But the financial depression of the country affected the Auburn prison, as well as business interests in general, the first half of the year; but with spring came a revival, and a demand for all the men at the disposal of the agent. Hence the last six months of the fiscal year present the following results:

Earnings from April and including September, (we quote from the agent's table,).....	$44,093 41
Expenses for ordinary support,.....	33,503 14
	<hr/>
Balance in favor of the prison, for six months,	$10,590 27
	<hr/> <hr/>

It should be observed, however, that the agent has put into the miscellaneous earnings of the prison for September, a credit for $5,906.95, received from the United States marshal for the support and maintenance of United States convicts, which sum is for the payment of an indebtedness running back for some time, and not truly earnings for the last six months. But throwing this item out of the account, (though a part of it properly belongs to it,) the balance of the earnings of the Auburn prison for the last six months, over its ordinary expenses, will still be $4,683.32. This shows the Auburn prison, under its present management, to be in a condition highly creditable to all concerned; putting, in fact, more money into the State treasury than it is taking therefrom.

The general condition of the Auburn prison will be seen from the agent's report, and accompanying papers, to which reference is here made. No new contracts have been made at the prison during the past year. From appropriations made by the last Legislature, the roof of the prison buildings have been thoroughly repaired and slated, and a large and commodious shop erected for the use of the shoe contract. There was a pressing necessity for these repairs, and for the new shop, but these are now completed, and for some time to come there can be no heavy demand for money for building and repairs at that prison.

By the direction of the Legislature of 1859, (chapter 470,) we have sold a portion of the State farm not needed for prison purposes. A map of this farm, with lines designating the portions sold and the portions retained, will be found on file in the Comptroller's office. The land to be sold was divided into eleven plots, (as seen on the map,) and sold in plots by the acre, and we are happy to report that the sales were far more advantageous to the State than we had feared they would be, averaging nearly $700 per acre.

It will be seen that the Croton aqueduct passes in an angular manner nearly through the center of two of these lots. This prison is dependent upon the Croton water works for a supply of water, and we can conceive of no other source from which a sufficient supply can be procured. The Croton Water Works Company now have a right of way through the prison grounds for their aqueduct, but they desire to obtain the right in fee to some 60 feet in breadth of the soil along the line of the aqueduct, so as to fence it in. After consulting with members of the Croton Company, and not deeming it wise to let the title pass from the State until the matter is arranged, we unanimously concluded to postpone the sale of the two lots above mentioned to May next, so as to allow the Legislature to take such action as may be deemed advisable under the circumstances. There are some sixteen acres in these two plots, and if sold at the rates for which the land around it was sold, the sum arising therefrom would amount to from $10,000 to $12,000.

The sum arising from the sale of these lands amounts to $34,233.34, all of which has been deposited with the State Treasurer, agreeable to the act under which the land has been sold.

It is a matter of high importance that a permanent supply of water for the prison be secured from the Croton Company, and the Legislature is respectfully urged to take such action as may lead to that result.

The Clinton prison does not present so creditable a record as we could desire. The present agent and warden, B. Squire, Esq., only entered upon his duties the 1st of July last, and of course was in possession only one-quarter of the last fiscal year. He has our full confidence as an officer, and we feel confident improvement may be expected during his administration. But the location of that prison will ever place it on a disadvantageous footing when compared with the other prisons, in the matter of procuring supplies and the letting of contracts.

The relative cost of maintaining convicts at the several prisons, will be seen from the figures below:

Cost at Sing Sing per month for each convict,-----	\$8 31 $\frac{3}{8}$
do Auburn, do do -----	7 68 $\frac{1}{2}$
do Clinton, do do -----	13 86 $\frac{3}{4}$

The above estimate includes the salaries of the officers and all expenses excepting buildings and repairs. The Sing Sing prison having no walls or other enclosure, requires fifteen more guards than the Auburn prison. When this additional expense ($7,200) is taken into the account, it will bring down the keeping of convicts at Sing Sing about to the same figure of keeping them at Auburn.

A contract was let at the Clinton prison in December last to Jacob D. Kingsland, for the services of from 50 to 100 men, to be employed in the manufacture of nails and iron, to run for five years, from January 1st, 1859, for 35 cents per day for each convict so employed.

The matter pertaining to the commission appointed by the last Legislature to settle the claims of Jacob D. Kingsland against the State, will be found fully set forth in the report of the agent of the Clinton prison, to which we here respectfully call attention.

The last Legislature appointed a commission to settle the claim on the Averill ore bed lot, which lot was then in the possession of the State for the use of the Clinton prison. This commission met in July last, and after a careful hearing of the case, decided that there had been no legal sale of this property to the State, and of course, the possession of the property must revert to the proper owners. We are happy to state that, notwithstanding this decision, Mr. Jacob D. Kingsland, the iron contractor, has been enabled to arrange with the parties interested, so as to continue to procure ore from the same bed, so there has been no interruption of work on his contract on account of this decision.

But there is a stream of water which is taken from the Averill lot to the prison grounds for separating ore and the various purposes for which water is required, which is indispensable in conducting this prison as an iron manufacturing prison. We know of no source from which a sufficient supply can be secured except from this brook. There are one or two small streams near by which could be brought into the yard, but they are not of sufficient volume, or sufficiently constant in their quantity, to meet the demands of the prison.

It is of the highest importance, therefore, to the interest of the Clinton prison that the Legislature take such action as may secure the use of the "Separator brook" (so called,) for the use of said prison.

The female prison had, at the close of the fiscal year, 136 convict inmates, 55 more than there are keeping cells in that prison. The enlargement of the female prison has for years been urged by the Inspectors of State Prisons, but still that object has not yet been obtained. The agent, however, has been instructed by the commissioners of the enlargement of the prisons, to put in cells in the place formerly occupied as a chapel, which, when accomplished, will add 28 additional cells to the prison. This will make only 109 cells, while at the writing of this report there are 138 convicts in the female prison.

One thing is certain, that the female prison will have to be considerably enlarged, or else female convicts will have to be provided for elsewhere. It has occurred to us that as a matter of economy, it would be advisable for the Legislature to designate some western penitentiary as a prison for females having but a short sentence, as by this arrangement the expense of such an enlargement of the female prison might be obviated, and a large amount saved of the expense incurred in the transportation of convicts from the western part of the State to Sing Sing.

The addition of a story to the workshop of the female prison has furnished ample room for the working of the female convicts, and besides left a vacant room below for use as a chapel.

The female prison at Sing Sing must ever be a heavy tax on the male prison at that place, as the expenses of the female prison must ever far exceed its earnings, and still financially it is joined to the male prison, and its expenses appear in the account current as against the agent of the male prison. We respectfully suggest that the finances of the female prison be entirely separated from the male prison.

Many of the female convicts come to the prison broken down in constitution, and incapable of severe labor, and many others have not the turn for nice work, which calls their services into demand. The most we have been able to secure, per day, for their services, is fifteen cents, and that, too, after repeatedly advertising.

We must refer to the reports of the respective chaplains for a view of the moral and religious condition of the unfortunate persons consigned to our prisons. We believe our chaplains to be really good men, laboring steadily in their respective charges for the reformation and permanent good of those under their religious care. We believe they not only labor in faith, but their hearts are often cheered by the tokens of a new and nobler life, which they from time to time witness developing itself even in subjects whom the world may regard as past reformation.

Our chaplains have emphatically the confidence and sympathy of the convicts. They are the medium of communication between the prisoners and their outside friends, and, as a matter of course, are entrusted with family matters, and secrets dear indeed to all the parties concerned, as the correspondence of the convicts all passes through their hands. Hence the patient attention of the chaplains to the story of the imprisoned, and their readiness to aid them in their trials, does much to secure their confidence, and the confidence so secured aids them greatly as counsellors in regard to their religious and moral well being.

And we are glad to bear testimony to the fact, that our chaplains aid greatly the discipline of our prisons, by their counsel and fatherly advice, not taking part with them in their misdoings, but by reminding them that a want of control over their passions has brought them into prison, and the want of self control is forever bringing them into difficulties, now that they are here.

We refer to the report of the venerable chaplain of the Sing Sing prison for an exposure of the fallacy, that our prisons are not reformatory. Rev. John Luckey has now been chaplain to that prison for the space of twelve years, and he has not only labored assiduously and hopefully for the reformation of convicts, but he has watched closely for the fruits of our prison system. He speaks from careful observation, and his opinions are entitled to great weight. His report in this respect is confirmed by the reports of the other chaplains.

After a careful consideration of the subject, it is the opinion of a majority of the members of this board, that our prison system, taken in all its bearings, is the best we have any knowledge of. It is true, that any system depends much on the master-minds and the controlling spirits who preside over it. In so much as discipline is concerned, a firm will and a kind heart are perfectly consistent, the one with the other; and man made in the image of the most benevolent of all beings, may have both goodness and severity combined in his character. And while a prison officer must, of necessity, assert his mastery over the criminals under his charge, he can do so in a manner to carry the conviction that he is the prisoner's friend, if only he shall demean himself in a manner to deserve his friendship.

And still, while we maintain that humanity is consistent with a resolute will, we, by no means, adopt the fallacy, that "moral suasion" alone, should be resorted to, to govern State prison convicts. Let the art be learned first of governing the outside world by "moral suasion" before the task is imposed on prison officers of managing the congregated criminals of all grades of our great State, by simply "talking to them." Men may stand at a respectable distance and theorize beautifully on this subject; but when they come to deal personally with men with perverse wills and perverser hearts, the experiment will demonstrate their delusion.

It is true it is one of the most embarrassing duties which an Inspector is called upon to discharge—the selection of men quali- fied to govern. But we are of the opinion that we have, as a general rule, good men for officers. We have sought to secure temperate men, of good morals, and adapted to control the men under their care; and we think we have, to some degree, succeeded. We take pleasure in bearing testimony to the general good conduct of the officers of our prisons, and especially the principal officers—men who are well adapted to their posts, watchful, efficient and honest. And with the times as they have been for the last six months, we cannot but look for most salutary improvement in financial matters.

Nor are we prepared to endorse the theory that seclusion is the best mode of reforming criminals. The moral and religious in man, is to be developed by action, by contact, by exercise in the midst of opposing obstacles, the same as the physical man is brought to maturity by a course of careful training, by exertion, by labor. A State prison convict differs from other sinners only by having violated a rule of right, which has a civil penalty attached to it, and there is no more reason for sending him into solitude for his reformation, than there is in advising solitude as a sovereign remedy for sinners in general. The young sapling must be reared amid the wind and storms, to be enabled to stand the blast when it becomes a full grown oak: and so the virtuous principle in man must have its development—not in the isolation of lone seclusion, but by action in the midst of human wills, and the busy whirl of the living multitude, where the jostling crowd call forth watchfulness and vigilance, and temptation excites care and caution. He who shuts himself out from temptation, may think himself virtuous; but he only is so, who can stand the force of other wills, and the shock of contact with his fellows.

It occurs to us that one of the greatest defects in our prison system lies in the want of a more direct personal accountability and an immediate individual responsibility of the principal officers. The law as it now stands requires an Inspector to change his charge from one prison to another every three months, and hence the three Inspectors go rotating one after another, each one, after having remained in charge of a prison long enough to begin to have some insight into its inner workings, has to leave for six months to do service at the two other prisons. Here, it is true, is a responsibility involved, but it is mixed and divided, and not that direct individual responsibility that there would be if a single inspector were steadily in charge of the same prison, and that for the management of such prison he alone stood accountable to the laws and the public. We have known an assistant keeper, who, when put into shops with other keepers, where there was a divided responsibility, never rose to a rank higher than a third rate keeper; but the same man, when put into a difficult shop, and the responsibility of governing it devolved upon him alone, immediately took rank as a first class officer; and this because power to do so and direct personal responsibility were so joined together as to admit of no shirking. This case illustrates the working of a principle which ought to have a fuller and wider range in its action, both on the Inspectors and principal officers.

In this connection we take the liberty to assert it as our opinion that the chief officers, particularly the agents of our prisons, are not receiving such compensation for their difficult and embarrassing services as they are earning from the State. Their salary was fixed years back, when the expenses of subsistence were far below what they are now. There is no more difficult and responsible post than that held by the agents of our prisons, and we maintain that good policy dictates that the compensation should be such as to command the best talent for these positions. Cheap men in places where hundreds of thousands of dollars are involved, may become by far the dearest kind of men when brought into the service of the State. The talent we have in these places is earning a better reward, and we insist that justice and good policy dictates an increase of their salaries.

The report and other papers of the Superintendent of the State Asylum for Insane Convicts, are submitted with the reports of the prison officers. This institution is now completed, and is, we may say, now in successful operation: The superintendent, Dr. Hall, seems well qualified for his post, and is intent on the improvement and cure of the unfortunate men confided to his care, and we are happy to report that in many cases he has succeeded, and that men brought to him with minds apparently in ruins, have been returned again to prison wholly restored. In this labor of humanity he is greatly aided by his able assistant, Dr. Van Anden, the former physician to the Auburn prison.

No appropriation will be required for the Insane Asylum, except for its ordinary support. Some change will be asked in the laws for its government, the particulars of which will be reported in another form.

Thus far, Rev'd. B. I. Ives, chaplain to the Auburn prison, has volunteered to hold religious services, on the Sabbath, with the insane convicts, and with marked good effect. The soothing influence is very perceptible on the minds of these insane men, adapted to arrest their wild wandering thoughts, and to put their thinking powers once again into their old track.

We suggest that the Legislature, by law, make the chaplain of the Auburn prison also the chaplain of the Insane Asylum, to be suitably rewarded for the additional services required.

In closing this report, we desire to recognize the goodness of Divine Providence in carefully watching over us the past year, preserving our prisons from wasting disease, and in giving to both officers and convicts a large degree of health and the common blessings of this life. The year has been peculiarly a healthy year; and the convicts, though shut away from their friends, and banished from the busy world for their transgressions, have nevertheless, gradually good health, an ample supply of wholesome food, and suitable raiment wherewith to be clothed.

The tables accompanying this report give the necessary detail of expenditures and receipts, and the reports of the chaplain, physician and other officers of the matters connected with their several departments.

CHAPLAIN'S REPORT

OF THE SING SING PRISON, FOR THE YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30, 1859.

To the Inspectors of State Prisons:

GENTLEMEN—It is a fact patent to all that superficial observers can know little or nothing of our convicts after they leave prison, unless they are re-arrested and the occurrence published in the papers, or reported by the police.

This knowledge of the arrests and ignorance of those who remain in seclusion, quietly renewing their character, has led to the popular, but false and exceedingly injurious opinion that “seventy-five per cent” or, “a majority of discharged convicts return to prison,” and, consequently, that your “prison system is unreformatory.”

Now, the direct influence of such sentiments is to paralyze all efforts at reform, whether within or without the prison walls, and to dry up the streams of benevolence which sustain our “prison associations,” our libraries of useful books, and other patent means employed for the benefit of prisoners; and also, if adopted by a majority in our Legislature, would lead to enactments which might become exceedingly embarrassing to the benevolent efforts of the honorable board.

I am happy, therefore, to have it in my power to demonstrate the statement that the popular opinion is as false as it is injurious. In the annexed table of statistics, numbered 12, will be found figures (taken from your legally attested records) by which it will be seen that instead of “a large majority of our convicts returning to prison,” the average percentage of recommitments for seven years past, is only twelve from the male, and five and a half from the female convicts. The fact that the percentage of “second comers” is greater (see annexed tables) since than it was previously to the panic of 1857, may still be traced, principally, to the causes mentioned in my last report, viz: the scarcity of employment, the increased facilities for gratifying intemperate habits, and the want of funds to enable that most efficient organization, “The New York Prison Association,” to prosecute its reformatory measures with wonted success.

Allow me, pursuant to statutory requirements, to say that my “labors, and their fruits, if any,” are about the same as reported last year. Indeed, as to the amount of labor bestowed it cannot, as you, gentlemen, are aware, be very much increased. The Sabbath is spent in conducting chapel services in both prisons, in visits to the sick in the hospitals, and to the serious at their cells.

The week days are fully occupied in superintending the correspondence of both prisons, the library operations, and performing various other subordinate duties.

The "fruits," &c., of my labors are, of necessity, so intimately connected with those of my fellow officers as to render it a delicate, if not an impossible thing for me to comply with the letter of the law in speaking distinctively of them; permit me, therefore, to leave them to be inferred from the amount and manner of the labors bestowed and from the annexed statistics. Every third week is spent in superintending the selections of books from the library. Having succeeded some four years since in re-collecting a small library, and after registering the books in alphabetical order, and placing them on shelves in my office, I announced the fact from my pulpit, something after this manner: "Friends, being legally charged with the control of the library, I have made arrangements to follow, as far as possible, the course pursued by "out door" librarians; you are, therefore, invited, with the concurrence of your several keepers, to come and select a book, each for himself, with the same freedom and feelings of self respect that inspire those who visit the mechanics' or any other library, and for the strict observance of the rules, (which you will find hanging in the library) I appeal solely to your magnanimity."

It is a fact worthy of remark that, from that day to this, obedience has been secured without reference to any other authority. At first only about 100 availed themselves of the library privileges, but as additions were made to the library, and the liberal character of the books became known, the number of applicants increased till now, between 800 and 900 pass through my office to select a book, thus bringing me in social contact, once in three weeks, with a large majority of our men. I am also brought into a more intimate social intercourse with them once in three months by reading and correcting, in their presence, all the letters they send out, and by reading and filing, for reference, those which they receive, consequently I become familiar with their domestic concerns, and the general facts connected with their degradation and imprisonment. In this, as in the library intercourse, I have to meet and counteract those natural tendencies to jealousy, selfishness, retaliation and fault-finding, by which our class of men and women are more especially distinguished, but with the exception of two or three cases, a dispassionate appeal to their sense of propriety, has won their cheerful consent to erasures of improper matter from their letters, or the denial of a much desired book. These are some of the present "fruits" of the manner of distributing our books, and conducting the correspondence. It is not safe to infer that the moral tone of action thus produced will be more or less permanent, that the "cheerful consent" to erase from their letters severe and irritating language to wives or parents, will tend to subdue their own violent tempers, and in many cases result in the reconciliation of friends and a happy home when discharged.

Having kept the address of those written to, as well as the names of those who write, I am able to visit their friends, and also the convict after his release from prison. I spend two days in every third week in this employment. Great facilities for its profitable accomplishment are found in the fact that about three quarters of our men come from the cities of New York and Brooklyn.

During my last visit, for instance, I saw, at their several homes, three of our discharged men, and had a pressing invitation to visit the fourth, but could not for the want of time. The latter had been out some fifteen years, the second five years, the third three years, and the fourth but one. All but one were released by executive clemency, and all were doing well, financially and morally. They had taken special care, however, not to cross the path of "the unbelievers" in reform. Several other families and friends of our prisoners were visited, consoled, and encouraged on this occasion.

It will be seen, by the various reports, that I have pursued this course of visitations, keeping a memorandum of the principal occurrences since the spring of 1840.

These memoranda furnished me with the names and addresses of the 100 reformed men, an account of which (together with the list of names) was submitted to the Inspectors at the close of the year 1843, and the fact noticed in my report published in 1844.

The President of the Board (I. H. Edmonds), living in the city, could and did test the correctness of these statistics so far, to his own and his colleague's satisfaction, as to originate that noble institution, "The New York Prison Association," and to adopt other very important reformatory measures. (For confirmation please see the Inspector's minutes of that date and said report.)

As I have preserved the original list containing the names, &c., of these 100 men, the Board can, by comparing it with the prison register, ascertain the truth or falsity of what I am about to assert, viz: that not more than six per cent of those 100 men ever returned to this prison.

These are, I think, the first statistics of the kind (relating to this prison at least) ever given to the public, and, no doubt, suggested the statistical requirements found in the law of 1847, since which the exact percentage of "second comers" can be ascertained (if the requirements of the law be heeded) with comparative ease.

I spend an hour on every Saturday afternoon with some ten or twelve convicts, who meet in the chapel to improve our choir singing. Here, as in the library processes, I have found no difficulty in preserving order and good will among them, and have lately been much pleased with the religious seriousness manifested by two or three of their number; indeed both congregations give more general indications of a rising interest in religious matters than formerly. May it "increase an hundred fold," for, believe me, gentlemen, just in proportion as men "fear the Lord" they "hate evil," and only in proportion as our people "hate evil" they will shun evil associations, and be likely not to return to prison.

A suit of rooms, one for business and another for private intercourse, would greatly facilitate the reformatory objects of this department.

Paradoxical as it may appear to others, I have, nevertheless, been in the practice of treating the worst men the best; that is to say, of taking special pains, in dealing with our powder-magazine men, to approach them tenderly and confidingly, which, in fact, is the key of the success I have met with in controlling them. But the gentlemen will at once perceive, that by pursuing this course in the presence of others, its subduing effect is materially diminished, and I am subjected to the exceedingly embarrassing charge of partiality, on the one hand, and of being deceived by "hypocritical pretensions" on the other. A private apartment is needed also for effective religious and domestic conversation.

Allow me, in this connection, to suggest the disciplinary importance of providing the principal keeper with a private consulting room in close connection with his punishment department. It would, other things being equal, do much towards lessening both the punishments and the occasion of them. I speak advisedly. I ought also to say that, under existing circumstances, with no prison walls for protection against escapes, with the interposition of a third party, whose chief interest is, of course, to urge these irritable men on and on to "hard labor," with a frequent change of keepers, and with a few convicts who give evidence that they are, morally, "past feeling," a competent mode of corporeal punishment, and the fact of its existence made known by positive use, &c., is absolutely indispensable. The mode, manner and amount of the punishment to be awarded are, therefore, the principal questions that practical men feel themselves called upon to solve. Respecting these, I have only to say, too much pains cannot be taken so to order and adjust them as to produce the greatest possible reformatory influence.

It would be decidedly suicidal, not only for the convicts and their friends, but also for society, into whose bosom, reformed or unreformed, these men must return, to require anything short of this.

With such a God-like ultimatum constantly in view, would a well informed, conscientious, dispassionate disciplinarian be likely to adopt, usually, the severest mode, the harshest manner, and the greatest amount of punishment at his command? Nay indeed; hence such a course betrays a vital defect, not in the simple use of corporeal punishment, but in the administration of it.

As to the "mode and amount," in their connection with this great object of penitentiary punishment, permit me to refer the honorable board to one or two illustrations.

In the annexed table (No. 12,) it will be seen that of 269 who were discharged last year, three returned. Now by tracing the incidents connected with the convict represented by the figure "4," in table No. 12, and a reference to the punishment book," it will be seen that this man was one of the three who went out and returned last year, that he was the shortest time out, and had been punished (mostly with the severest mode,) not less than seventeen times during the short time he was here.

The next and only illustration I have either time or space to offer, relates both to the mode and severity of punishment, and is taken from an official record now before me, and reads thus: "On the second day of April, 1821, the Legislature charged the agent of the (Auburn) prison to select a number of the most hardened criminals, and to lock them up in solitary cells, night and day, without interruption and without labor. In December, 1821, a sufficient number of cells was completed, and eighty criminals were placed in them. From this experiment results the very reverse of those which had been anticipated were produced; five of those who had been subjected to this confinement died within a year, one of them had become insane; another, watching an opportunity when his keeper brought him something, in a fit of despair precipitated himself from the gallery, * * * the rest fell into a state of such deep depression, that their lives must have been sacrificed had they remained longer in this situation. Under these circumstances the Governor pardoned twenty-six, and the remainder were allowed to leave their cells during the day, and work in the shops of the prison. This system, which had been so fatal to the health of the criminals, proved likewise insufficient in producing reform. Out of the twenty-six pardoned by the Governor, fourteen were soon returned for new offences." These results accord as well with my experience and observation as with history and moral philosophy.

Unmitigated severity in disciplinary punishments may produce a cringing menial and misanthrope, but never a reformed man! At the altar of municipal justice, as at God's altar, mercy must be apprehended, however faint its rays, or hard its conditions, or despair and abandonment will be the issue, and the subject become reckless of the most desperate encounters. I am aware of the embarrassing position the principal disciplinarian is frequently placed in, by the rashness and impetuosity of parties before the case is submitted for his adjustment, and by the visits of "spectators" to the punishment room at the time. With these "surroundings," and no private apartment in which to discipline the mind of the culprit, his only alternative seems to be "unmixed severity," both in the mode and manner of punishment, or a dangerous compromise of prison rule.

And the culprit, with his baser passions wrought up to the highest pitch of excitement, and surrounded by those whose unbidden presence betrays their want of sympathy, will, of course, resist physical force as long as any strength remains, and then leave, or be carried from the scene of contest "tenfold more the child of hell than he was before," or die with expressions of malice and hatred lingering upon his lips. Allow me to mention two more ways that this state of things might, in a great measure, be prevented or remedied.

1. By an unobtrusive watchfulness, on the part of those who have the constant charge of these violent ones, to detect and quietly remove provocations or temptations to irritation or insubordination from them.

2. By the erection of some fifteen or twenty large, light, airy, but solitary cells, in which to confine and diet (on bread and water if necessary) our noted refractory convicts, at least until they shall yield entire submission to the rules of the prison, and be employed on "State work." This mode of punishment being, like the divine economy, deprivatory in its character, must be wholesome in its final end; and would, doubtless, prevent the most, if not all, of our "prison insurrections."

Still, after all this has been accomplished, it must be known that a mode of severe corporeal punishment is recognized by our statute books, and its use optional with the prison authorities, or even the chaplain's efforts would prove more or less abortive; consequently all else that I ask for, in behalf of reformatory discipline, is that the use of this mode should be regarded as a dernier resort; and, this being granted, I know of no modes in human hands less liable to abuse, than are the shower bath in the summer, and the lash in the winter.

I should not have written so fully and freely on the above subject, had I not been invited to do so by an authority whom I can never cease to respect, and who knows that I have for years occupied a position, qualifying me to speak from experience and observation, as well as theory,—my office having been, for that length of time, within hearing distance of the punishment room, &c.

The moral and religious condition of the female prison has been very favorable during the entire year. For this state of things much credit is due to the extra services of the matrons in conducting a Sabbath school, and in their every day moral bearing towards, and their mild but dignified and firm treatment of the impulsive and irritating frail ones under their charge.

Not wishing to anticipate the Matron's report by any extended remarks of my own, and wishing to avoid the "vain repetition" of those views which are alike applicable to both prisons. I will only suggest the establishment of a Sabbath school for the ignorant and serious among the male prisoners, to be conducted by the same agency as is the one for the females. Why not? sure I am that this form of contact would materially tend, not only to strengthen and advance the reformation of the pupils, but also to imbue the minds of the teachers with the same spirit that induced the following stanza:

"Teach me to feel another's woe,
To hide the fault I see;
That mercy, I to others show,
That mercy show to me."

Having witnessed these happy results for three successive years, (see the agent's and principal keeper's reports published in 1843,) I speak with confidence.

All the bibles we have received for two years past, and indeed many of the library books were procured, in donations and otherwise, by Mrs. Pierre Van Cortlandt. Many thanks and much gratitude are due this lady, and Wm. Jay Haskett, Esq., of New York, for their efforts and benevolence in this respect. Still we need, at this moment, 100 Bibles for the male, and 50 for the female prison, to procure which, according to the decision and direction of the Comptroller, will consume the greatest part of last year's appropriations for the library proper. Gentlemen, from what fund shall we renew the latter?

I intended to cite attention to several more important matters, as developed by the annexed tables, but forbear lest I weary the honorable board.

Please find the teachers' reports annexed, and accept of my hearty thanks for the kindly bearing and generous forbearance exercised towards me by the officers and keepers generally, and by the Inspectors in particular.

Yours, truly,

JOHN LUCKEY, Chaplain.

TEACHER'S REPORT

To the Rev. JNO. LUCKEY, Chaplain of the Sing Sing Prison:

It again becomes our duty to submit to you our annual report, exhibiting within the year last past our instructions. We have taught in all about one thousand, our average number being between five hundred and fifty and six hundred. We have a greater number on our books at the present time than usual,—more, we think, than there has ever been before. In all there are 667, classified as follows:

Learning the alphabet,	11
do spelling,	21
do reading,	105
do writing,	296
do cyphering,	234, viz:

Addition, 61; subtraction, 20; multiplication, 24; division, 52; reduction, 27; fractions, 30; rule of three and upwards, 20. The authors of the different text-books, of which by law we are constrained to make some account, are so various that we deem it superfluous to name them all, and shall therefore only mention those that are most generally used, viz: Davies' and Perkins' arithmetics, Mandeville's readers, and Town's and Webster's spelling books.

The only method permitted in teaching them writing, is by slate and pencil, and although none of the best means which in the case might be adopted, yet we think our pupils make very good proficiency—scarcely to be equalled in other schools where better advantages are extended.

Many within the past year have been taught to read with some readiness, who previously could not read at all. Their arithmetical advancement has been equally as progressive and encouraging.

We flatter ourselves that by our teaching a better state of morals has been wrought upon those instructed, for thereby their minds have been directed to reading, and especially to "search the scriptures," by which sacred truths they have been guided in that "better path," in which we trust many are journeying, and will so continue until they shall have arrived at that place prepared for all who properly seek an entrance therein.

The result of several years of our experience in teaching in this place, assures us in asserting this as a fact. We do not arrogate this to ourselves wholly, for indeed is it likewise attributable to the worthy gentlemen who preceded us.

As hitherto, we still experience the inconvenience arising from the want of sufficient light, and also in the deficiency of slates, books, &c., with which to teach. May we again petition for a supply of these necessities?

In the performance of our duties we are pleased to bear testimony to the respectful deportment of our pupils, and would speak most emphatically of the commendable anxiety which seems to prevail among them to profit from the instruction afforded, and we doubt not of many of them, that should they be permitted by God's providence to leave their gloomy places of confinement with sufficient health to be useful, they will apply the talents which they have here gained, in such a manner as will prove serviceable both to themselves and their fellow beings.

Our ordinary routine of service, as already stated, has not materially differed from the detail given in our former reports; therefore, what further might be said would be only to reiterate what has been previously mentioned.

Wishing you every success in your own sphere of action, accept, we pray you, the sentiments of esteem and respect with which we remain

Very truly and respectfully yours,

GEORGE WRIGHT,

D. M. WYGANT,

Teachers.

FEMALE PRISON.

SING SING, Sept. 30, 1859.

To the Rev. JOHN LUCKEY, Chaplain:

Sir—In compliance with the statute, &c., I herewith submit my annual report for the fiscal year ending this day.

The school under my charge has been doing well, and great progress has been made. I have, at present, about 70 pupils.

Of this number 2 are learning the alphabet.

30	do	to spell, read and write.
20	do	do and write.
15	do	do and read.
3	do	arithmetic.

Some six or eight who only knew their letters have learned to read, and some twenty have learned to write during the year.

A great want is felt for "Town's Speller and Definer," which greatly retards my labors. A supply of slates, pencils, and other necessities would, also, be very serviceable.

Yours, respectfully.

MARY J. HICKOK.

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

SING SING PRISON HOSPITAL, }
September 30th, 1859. }

*To the Inspectors of State Prisons
of the State of New York:*

GENTLEMEN—In my last annual report, I called your attention to the necessity of erecting a suitable building for the accommodation of convicts suffering under infectious or contagious diseases. Such necessity was apparent in November last, when a convict was received from Kings county, so sick that he was immediately admitted into the hospital, and on the third day was broken out with small-pox. He was removed to a small, uncomfortable building, on the hill, just within the cordon of guards, where he was successfully treated. For several years, every convict, when received, if he shows no marks of vaccination, or small-pox, is vaccinated, as a precautionary measure against the introduction and spread of this much to be dreaded disease. There were no new cases. It is my most earnest request that such building be erected at the earliest possible convenience. The number of convicts have so increased in the past years, as to make it necessary to occupy the chapel and hospital for sleeping rooms for about eighty; the noise consequent on so large a number as are lodged in the hospital, congregated in a room where there are many sick, has the effect to greatly aggravate their disease, and to render diseases more fatal than they would be otherwise. The number in the female prison is, also, so augmented, that about one-third of the cells have two occupants; it is hoped that more ample accommodations will be speedily provided.

The prevalent diseases through the winter and spring months, were colds, catarrhal, and pneumonia fevers, and rheumatics; while through the summer and fall, diarrhoeas, dysenteries, cholera morbus and remittant fevers, were very prevalent. Eleven cases of sickness resulted in death, in the male prison, and three in the female prison. One male was choked to death while eating his dinner. For further particulars I refer you to the statistic tables annexed.

Very respectfully submitted,

W. M. BELCHER,

Physician and Surgeon.

FEMALE PRISON.

To the Inspectors of State Prisons :

Gentlemen—In conformity with law and usage, allow me respectfully to submit the following report :

By appointment from your board, I entered upon the duties of matron of this prison, on the 1st day of November, 1859, one month after the commencement of the fiscal year, and therefore, from actual knowledge, can only speak of the last eleven months.

There were, as appears on reference to the prison records, on the 30th day of September, 1858, one hundred and four convicts in this prison. Of this number, twenty-one have been discharged by expiration of sentence ; two have been pardoned by the Governor ; one removed for a new trial, and three have died ; leaving, of those who were confined in this prison on the first day of October, 1858, seventy-seven. Since this date, fifty-nine have been received, making a total of one hundred and thirty-six now in this prison.

For statistical information, in reference to earnings, expenses, and all other matters, I beg leave respectfully to refer you to the report of the agent, under whose supervision they more appropriately come.

The health of this department has been generally good. No epidemic has prevailed, and there have been but three deaths ; a smaller proportion than might be expected among the same number of persons elsewhere. Of those who have died, two were invalids when received. The present healthful condition of this prison is in a great measure attributable to the care and attention of the physician, whose patience in listening to the numerous demands made upon him, and whose uniform kindness toward the inmates have shown him to be peculiarly fitted for the responsible position which he now occupies.

The conduct of the convicts has, in general, been quiet and orderly ; submitting cheerfully to such regulations as have been necessarily imposed upon them, for their management and control. This, in my judgment, is in a great degree to be attributed to the fact, that while strict and rigid compliance with all the rules and regulations adopted by your board for the management and government of the institution has been enforced, no unreasonable requirement has been made, and no cruel or excessive punishment inflicted. They have been taught to feel that though guilty, we look upon them as unfortunate also, and, that while the violated law exacts its penalties, they have the earnest and heartfelt sympathies of those to whose custody that law consigns them.

It has been necessary to resort to punishment in thirty-nine cases, very few of which were severe or long continued, and those confined mostly to the same individuals.

The school has been continued for the benefit of those who are disposed to learn, and I am pleased to say, that the majority have evinced a commendable degree of interest in this means of improvement, and have shown a due appreciation of the efforts made by those to whom this department has been consigned.

The sabbath school is still sustained, and though its beneficial effects may not be immediately evident, I am confident it will eventually prove an important means of moral improvement.

The sabbath exercises have been regularly conducted by the chaplain, and in my estimation, the spiritual interests of these unfortunate women could not have been committed to more competent hands. He has devoted himself entirely to the interests of these wandering children of error, and has shown by acts of kindness so cheerfully performed, and by words of advice so gently administered, and with such hearty good will, that he is a friend in whom they can repose every confidence, and whose only wish is to do them good. If success in his efforts to benefit others, and the consciousness of duty well and faithfully performed, can add to his happiness here, he has his reward already.

To my assistants I am greatly indebted for their attention and devotedness in the performance of their duties in the various departments, and was highly gratified that the Legislature, at its last session, with a just appreciation of their services, appropriated an additional sum of one hundred dollars each to them. This amount could not have been more worthily bestowed, and I should be greatly pleased to see their salaries for the future permanently increased to an amount fully equal to the value of the services required of them.

I cannot close this, my first report, without expressing my grateful sense of the many obligations I am under to the agent, for repeated acts of kindness and attention toward me. The performance of my duties has been made easy by the assistance he has invariably been ready to render me, and in times of doubt or difficulty, his counsel has enabled me overcome obstacles which would otherwise have proved insurmountable.

In conclusion, gentlemen, allow me to express to you my thanks for your kindness, and the confidence reposed in me. I have endeavored faithfully to perform the duties of my office to the best of my abilities, and if I have succeeded in what I have so earnestly striven to do, it is more from the assistance yourselves and others connected with these institutions have bestowed, than from any peculiar fitness or ability in myself.

I am, gentlemen, respectfully yours,

F. E. WOODFIN, Matron.

AGENT AND WARDEN'S REPORT.

AUBURN PRISON, }
Nov., 1859. }

To the Inspectors of State Prisons of the State of New York :

Gentlemen—The Agent and Warden of the Auburn Prison, in accordance with law, respectfully

REPORTS :

I entered upon my duties as Agent and Warden of this prison in January, 1859, consequently a portion of following statements of the receipts and expenditures were taken from the books kept by my predecessors, but I have entire confidence in their correctness.

The following statement exhibits the monied transactions of this prison for the fiscal year, ending September 30th, 1859 :

Expenses for ordinary support,	$72,637 61
Buildings and repairs,.....	7,237 46
	<hr/>	$79,875 07
Earnings on contracts,	$64,512 09

		<hr/> <hr/>

Amount drawn from treasury on estimate,.....		79,496 69
Cash received and deposited to credit of treasurer,.....		77,783 59
Excess drawn over deposits,		1,713 10
		<hr/> <hr/>
Cash on hand October 1, 1858,	$513 33
Cash from treasury,.....	79,496 69
	<hr/>	$80,010 02
Less amount expended,.....		79,875 07
		<hr/> <hr/>
Leaving balance on hand October 1, 1859,		$134 95
		<hr/> <hr/>

The above statement of earnings and expenditures during the fiscal year, between myself and my respected predecessor, would stand as follows ;

Provisions on hand October 1, 1859,	$464 59
Expenditures during months October, November and December,	22,823 21	$23,287 80
Less goods on hand January 1, 1859, and transferred to me,		$4,290 26
		<hr/> $18,997 54
Add indebtedness price by me,		846 87
		<hr/> $19,844 41
By total earnings during months Oct., Nov. and Dec., 1858,		12,843 61
		<hr/> $7,000 80
		<hr/> <hr/>

For the nine months ending September 30, 1859, under my superintendence, the account stands as follows :

Provisions on hand January 1, 1859,	$4,290 26
Entire expenditures,	57,051 86	$61,342 12
		<hr/>
Deduct indebtedness paid as above,	$846 87
Provisions on hand October 1, 1859,	378 99	$1,225 86
		<hr/>
		$60,116 26
Deduct also amount expended for buildings and repairs during the above nine months,		6,406 04
		<hr/>
Making the total expenses for ordinary support,		$53,710 22
By total earnings during nine months, ending Sept. 30, 1859,		59,839 72
Total earnings over ordinary expenses,		6,129 50
		<hr/> <hr/>

The amount expended for buildings and repairs at the prison, should be estimated for annually ; and such sums as are deemed necessary and proper, should be appropriated by the Legislature. As a matter of expense, it makes no difference, perhaps ; but the Legislature would, at all times, know what erections and repairs are required, and give or withhold the amounts. The funds earned at the prison, are placed, at least, once a week, to the credit of the Treasurer of the State ; and our reliance for getting the means for ordinary repairs, or for new buildings, is in placing the amounts required into the estimates submitted to the Comptroller monthly, thus drawing from the appropriation made for "the support and maintenance of the convicts," sums of money doubtful, as to its legality, under the peculiar wording of the law, making the appropriation.

It is not a legitimate charge against the prison, and should be otherwise provided for.

The average contract price per day, under contracts for last fiscal year, was 52 7-10 cents.

Average price, under last lettings, and now in force, 48 1-10 cents.

Deduct from this, clauses inserted in contracts, not in the ones expired, 4 3-10 cents. Making the present contracts average per day, 43 8-10 cents.

Making the earnings of each convict, upon contract, under the existing contracts, less than those of last year, by eight cents, nine mills per day, 8 9-10 cents.

The average earnings of each convict, on contract, per day, per year, is 34 5-10 cents.

The average earnings of all the convicts in prison, per day, is 25 1-10 cents.

I would respectfully suggest to the honorable Board of Inspectors, the necessity of enforcing upon the Legislature, the absolute necessity of amending the present laws of the State in regard to the letting contracts. The present laws are entirely too loose, and leaves agents and Inspectors liable to suspicions of favoritism, or worse, which, in many cases, or all, are entirely unwarranted. But the law should allow no contract to be in force, not made in perfect accordance with the bid of the parties, and the advertisement of the agent. Nothing should be left to discretion. Men should not be permitted to bid "for each and every convict to be employed at a given business, and then insert into the contract, clauses, making the price less by twenty per cent, than the bid made by him. I have great doubts of the legality of a contract thus drawn under our present laws.

It is unjust in many cases, also, to other bidders; one man may bid supposing as he has a right to do, that the agent's advertisement means just what it reads; while another bids a fraction higher, but has a clause inserted into the contract, not mentioned in his bid, which reduces the actual earnings twenty per cent lower than the rejected bids; thus, you perceive that while the agent and inspectors may have honestly overlooked this advantage, the keen and practised contractor has availed himself of a handsome profit alone, between his own bid and the amount actually earned by the convict under the contract.

To demonstrate this, take the last four contracts let at this prison. The whole number of days' labor actually performed on the contracts during the fiscal year, (a part of the contracts not having been yet a year in operation) is 72,454 $\frac{1}{4}$, which at the contract price, as drawn, amounts to \$30,008.53.

The same number of days' labor at their own bid, amounts to $37,879.61.

Making a difference between the contract prices as severally drawn, and their bids, of $7,871.05. Or in one year, of $8,727.41.

Or in five years, the full term of the contracts, of $43,637.05.

This calculation, you perceive, is based upon actual days' labor performed, after all proper deductions have been made for sickness, lameness, or for which the contract provides.

I have no doubt the present board will be as much astonished as I was when I began these figures; my object in introducing them was not to censure those who made those contracts, but to prevent a repetition of them, and to show the necessity for further legislation.

The condition of the prison has greatly improved. Its discipline, under the more immediate care of the principal keeper, Stephen S. Austin, Esq.; has been maintained without any severe or cruel punishment upon the erring convicts. The men have, almost without an exception, performed their labor with cheerfulness, and I believe no just complaints exist that they do not do all the labor they are capable of doing. This state of things demonstrates that the lash and shower bath can be, with proper officers to manage the convicts, safely banished from our prisons.

Having had no experience in the details of prison management up to the time I entered upon the duties of agent and warden, I have felt it more necessary to lean upon Mr. Austin, as far as the internal police regulations were concerned, than if it had been otherwise.

I can, therefore, cheerfully bear witness to his fidelity to the charge committed to him, and of his ready and cheerful compliance with such rules as may have been made from time to time for the government of the institution.

The chaplain and physician of a prison are each able to wield a great influence over the discipline of the institution, and the latter over its finances. To the present chaplain of this prison, the Rev. B. I. Ives, I have been greatly indebted, not only by his moral teachings to the convicts, but as a powerful auxiliary to a good discipline, being their confidante in all matters relating to their families or their affairs, seeing all letters coming into the prison, and communicating the prisoner's thoughts back to the family from which he has been separated, he is enabled to exercise an influence for good beyond that of others, and I am pleased to say his efforts have been highly successful.

In Dr. Theodore Dimon, the physician of the prison, I have had an able assistant, as well as his predecessor, Dr. Van Anden, now employed in the State Asylum for Insane Convicts. Both of them have labored faithfully in the performance of their duties while in charge here. I believe if they have erred in judgment in regard to the wants of those applying to the hospital for treatment, they have erred in favor of the prisoner, (as they should,) and that contractors have been the gainers, not losers, by these errors, if made. Both have been exceedingly attentive, and have richly earned the pittance they have received. For further particulars I respectfully refer you to their reports accompanying this.

I repeat a recommendation of my experienced predecessor in his last annual report :

“I call your attention particularly to the fact that there is a deficiency of water in the prison in the dry season of the year. In case of fire this deficiency is made very apparent. The safety of the property of the State and that of the contractors, as well as the lives of the convicts, are placed in great hazard on this account.”

I also bear witness cheerfully to another recommendation of his in the following words :

"The discipline, and consequently the pecuniary results of this Prison, is injuriously affected by frequent changes of the subordinate officers. These changes are, it is true, unavoidable under our system, still it is proper that attention should be called to the fact that such exchanging, an experienced keeper for one, entirely unacquainted with the duties of the place, even if the capacity of the new one is equal to that of his predecessor, must for a time cause great confusion. The chances are that the change of officers is for the worse in point of adaptation to the business, as well as experience. Keepers do not possess the art of governing convicts in an equal degree, and some cannot learn at all. My opinion is, that after obtaining a set of competent and faithful officers, they should hold their places during good behavior ; under such a system, I am satisfied there would be better order and more satisfactory results."

There has been three new contracts entered into since the last annual report—two at the same business heretofore carried on, the other for the manufacture of agricultural implements. The two former were re-lettings at the cabinet and chair business, the other for the manufacture of boots and shoes.

On retiring from the duties of Inspector of State prisons in January, 1857, and in the report of that year to the Legislature, I stated that "I would take the prisons at Auburn and Sing Sing for a term of years, pay their entire ordinary expenses, submit to such rules and regulations as may be imposed by the Inspectors, fulfill all existing contracts, and pay a small amount annually into the treasury during the term.

In that proposition I was entirely sincere ; I have the same belief now that they can be made paying institutions, with proper guards, by throwing the letting of contracts, and confining the number of officers to the actual requirements of the prisons: the discipline depends more upon the kind of men appointed to situations of keepers and guards than upon numbers. Twenty good keepers, properly distributed, will keep better order, give better satisfaction to the contractors, and less men be punished, than twenty-five keepers appointed as now, having no guide as to their qualifications, but the recommendation of friends, and no test of their ability to perform the duties as expected of them when appointed by the Inspectors. Thanking the Inspectors for the uniform kindness and courtesy shown me in the difficult position I have the honor to hold by their appointment,

I have the honor to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

THOMAS KIRKPATRICK,

Agent and Warden.

I, Thomas Kirkpatrick, agent and warden of the Auburn prison, do solemnly swear that the facts and statements set forth in the foregoing report are just and true, according to the best of my knowledge and belief.

THOMAS KIRKPATRICK.

HOSPITAL, AUBURN PRISON, October 1st, 1859.

To the Inspectors of State prisons of the State of New York :

Gentlemen—I respectfully submit a report of the condition of the medical department of this prison :

There has been more sickness in the prison the past year, than for several years previous. The number of prescriptions for years 1858 and 1859, is 9545, a daily average of twenty-six. The greatest number in any previous year, since 1853, is 6987, a daily average of nineteen. The daily average number of hospital patients for 1858 and '59 is $13\frac{1}{2}$; the greatest daily number of hospital patients in any previous year since 1858 is $9\frac{1}{2}$. The excuses from labor on account of sickness in 1858 and '59, are in days, 2236; the greatest number of excused days in any previous year, since 1853 is 1721. The hospital reports of day's labor, excused on account of sickness, however, previous to July of this year, do not show the real loss of labor from this source with correctness, for two reasons : One, that it has not been customary to enter the excuses on the hospital books which were given for a term of days, or "till further orders;" another, that it has been customary to allow the keepers, to some extent, to excuse convicts they considered too sick to work, and who had not been excused by the physician. The keepers' work books thus show a much larger loss of labor from sickness than the hospital reports would indicate. Under the system adopted by the agent, on the 1st of July, 1859, the keeper is required to exact labor from every convict who is not excused in writing by the physician, and the physician is expected to charge on his records day by day, every excuse granted. By this rule, the days excused for July, on the hospital records were 436, more than double the number reported for any previous month in the year; the keepers' books for that month show $458\frac{1}{2}$ days lost by sickness, a difference of only $22\frac{1}{2}$; while in April, the hospital records showing only 197 excuses granted, the keepers' books show over 500 allowed, a difference of over 300.

The increased amount of sickness this year, is, in part, owing to the increase in the number of convicts, and in part, to the fact that the season has been more than usually sickly in the surrounding country.

While it is a subject of regret, that from this cause, the receipts from the labor of the convicts have been diminished, and the hospital expenses increased, yet I may congratulate you, gentlemen, upon the fact, that the number of deaths is below the annual average percentage for this prison. The annual average percentage for this prison, since it was opened, is 1.95 per cent, or nearly two per cent. The percentage for this year, including three deaths resulting from the maintenance of discipline, is 1.65; not including those, it is 1.26; computing upon the ages of the convicts, by the Carlisle tables, the percentage would be 140.

There were in the prison, on the last day of September, convicts aged

The average number for the year is, 788. Taking into consideration the unhealthy condition of convicts sent to prison, induced by vicious habits, as compared with an equal number of citizens of the same ages, and it will appear, that the above statement, of the ratio of mortality in this prison, argues very favorably, so far as health is concerned, for the system of confinement and labor adopted here, and for the successful administration of it by the officers. And I take great pleasure in saying in this connection, that during the short time in which the medical department has been under my charge, viz.: since the 20th June last, it has certainly been the fact, that no pains or expense have been spared by the agent, to supply everything I could desire in quantity, quality or variety of food, or any other appliances within his power, to secure the health of the convicts. From every other officer, as well, I have uniformly received willing aid in the discharge of my official duties.

I deem the following statement, made to me by Mr. Richardson, keeper of the mess department, so creditably characteristic of the management of that department, as to warrant bringing it to your notice:

“There have been furnished to the convicts this summer, in addition to the ordinary rations, over 1,000 bushels of onions, turnips, beets and apples, besides a number of wagon loads of fresh garden vegetables.”

From the data in my possession I am unable to furnish you, as yet, with any explanation of the large ratio of insane convicts sent from this prison to the asylum for insane convicts; but I trust that information will not be lacking on this subject, under the arrangements governing the asylum and prisons, which will afford a satisfactory solution of it, as consistent with the effect of the discipline here upon the convicts in this respect, as it has been shown to be upon their general health in other respects.

The diseases which have been more prevalent in the prison than usual, the past year, are affections of the lungs, rheumatism, remittent fever, intermittent fever and abscesses.

The number of deaths for the year is thirteen, viz:

Deaths resulting from maintenance of discipline,	3
do do consumption of the lungs,	5

CHAPLAIN'S REPORT.

AUBURN, Sept. 30th, 1859.

To the Hon. Board of Inspectors of State Prisons for the State of N.Y:

Gentlemen—In compliance with the requirements of the statute, I respectfully submit to you the following, as my third annual report as chaplain of the Auburn prison.

The ordinary routine of duty (which I have endeavored most faithfully to perform) has not materially differed from the detail given you in a former report.

There have been religious services in the chapel every Sabbath morning, at nine o'clock, during the entire year.

The deportment of the prisoners, when assembled for worship, has been, without a single exception, respectful and attentive.

By my invitation several clergymen, of different denominations, have at different times during the past year, preached to this large congregation of unfortunate and fallen men, each of whom expressed satisfaction, and even pleasure, in so doing, from the fact of the good order that prevailed, and the attention that appeared to be paid to the "preaching of the word," and the manifest desire to be instructed in the way of "life and salvation."

I am happy to say to you that, in my opinion, quite a number during the last year have become thoroughly reformed, by giving their hearts to God, and are trying to lead a life of prayer; and I have no doubt but that their virtuous and industrious habits, through the residue of their days, will be such as will show that I have not been deceived in this matter, and that my anxious laboring for their good has not been in vain "in the Lord."

Several of those who have died here during the last year expressed to me, as I talked and prayed with them, their strong confidence and assurance of the pardoning mercy of God, through the merits of our Lord Jesus Christ, and I trust they have died in peace with their maker, they "having obtained mercy."

The Sunday school (or Bible classes) continues to be held in the chapel every Sabbath morning, during one hour and a half previous to the public services.

The school is still under the superintendency of Mr. H. A. Yates, and there are now about one hundred and fifty convicts that attend, they having received tickets from me so to do.

The prison library, I am glad to say, is now more ample and in a much better condition than at any time since my connection with the prison.

The two hundred dollars that came into my hands, with which to replenish the library, has been faithfully and carefully expended for good and useful books, all of which I endeavor to keep in good repair.

I will here again express my regret, as I have in my former reports, that the prison is not so lighted as to permit all of the convicts to study or read for an hour or two each night during the fall and winter seasons. As I expressed my views on this subject in my report of last year, I will therefore say no more in reference to it now.

The present instructors, (Messrs. Isaac Lewis and Charles Cootes) are, I believe, very faithful in the discharge of their duties; and many of the convicts who are allowed to receive instructions, appear to be very much interested, and are making good progress in their studies.

This very wise and humane arrangement has already resulted in great good to many who have been unfortunate enough to grow up in ignorance, and very likely many of them have got into prisons because of their ignorance.

The instructors' reports (to me) are herewith connected.

I have continued to superintend all of the correspondence of the convicts, which is a very responsible, and at times quite an onerous duty; yet I attend to it very cheerfully, for by so doing I learn, not only the feelings and views of the convicts, but also much of their early history, and the circumstances and influences under which they have been reared, &c., etc.; all of which is quite important in order to know just how to labor successfully for their instruction and reformation.

Though I understand the duties of the chaplain to pertain especially to the mental and moral improvement of the convicts, I have also endeavored to do what I could to assist the officers in the maintenance of order and good discipline; believing that even a vigorous discipline, wisely enforced, will do much to bring about this very desirable result.

And here I will repeat a part of what I said upon this subject in my report of last year: "It has been a disregard to law and order that has brought many of these unfortunate men into prison, and if while here, they can become habituated to living according to rule, it will not only be for their good while in prison, but may be made a great benefit to them through life."

While upon this subject, allow me just to say, that in my opinion there is nothing connected with the government of the prison that is so detrimental to its discipline, or that operates so much against the reformation of the convicts, as the so frequently changing of the officers.

However brief, therefore, may be my connection with the prison as chaplain, or whatever political party may be in power, I hope for the good of the prisoners and the best interest of the prison in every particular, that the time will come when there will be a change in this respect.

And that in the appointments of men to the various offices, more regard shall be paid to their moral fitness and adaptation to their respective positions, and less to their political opinions.

I have endeavored at all times to discharge the duties required by law and as set forth by the honorable Board of Inspectors in their "rules and regulations for the government and discipline of the prison."

I think there has been no period during the last three years, when there was as good a state of feeling among the convicts as at the present time.

The discipline is good, and, as a result, there are but few cases of punishment.

The men do their work well and faithfully, and, as a general thing, they are cheerful in the performance of the tasks that are assigned them.

This I learn from personal conversation with them, and from their correspondence to their friends.

It will be seen by referring to the statistical tables accompanying this report, that the number now in prison on their second and third convictions, is much less in proportion, than was shown in my report of last year. This I think, should be looked upon as rather a favorable omen.

I have also held religious services in the "State Lunatic Asylum for insane convicts," nearly every Sabbath (in the afternoon) since it has been in operation.

This is thought by Dr. Hall, the worthy superintendent, as well as others, to be productive of great good to the doubly unfortunate class who are therein confined.

It has been a matter of surprise to me, to witness the quieting and soothing effects of prayer and praise, upon the minds of some who, at times, are quite frantic.

I wish in conclusion, to express my gratitude to the "agent and warden," and to all of the officers of the prison, for the kindness they have ever shown me, and for the assistance they have, at all times, appeared willing to afford me, and have rendered me in the discharge of my official duties.

With an earnest prayer for your individual happiness, and that you may be guided by wisdom from above, in the discharge of your perplexing and responsible duties,

I am, most respectfully yours, &c.,

B. I. IVES.

INSTRUCTORS' REPORTS.

AUBURN PRISON, September 30th, 1859.

Rev. B. I. IVES, Chaplain, &c:

I have been teacher in the north wing for about six months, and according to law and usage, I submit the following report:

The whole number of convicts under my instruction are 135, of which

20	are learning to spell,
55	do read and write,
60	do recite and cypher.

And I am happy to say we have been supplied with spelling books and Sanders' Readers, slates, pencils and arithmetics, so that most of the men have had books at hand, and have made evident advances in their studies. As I make a note of what they do each night, and designate their lessons, I shall call for the next time I visit their cells, I am able to detect any neglect on their part, if they do not improve the light or lamp.

And last, though not least of importance, their attention has been called to the decalogue (or ten commandments), and they have been required to learn these and recite them from the Bible. And with regret I have to report that some of the convicts did not know that they were in the Bible. Many of them cannot read writing, not even the letters they receive from their relatives.

And they are not able to make a letter, or write a single line to their parents or families, and this is the kind of instruction I am endeavoring to impart to them. Although they labor hard, and under embarrassing circumstances, yet many of them do acquire a knowledge of writing and cyphering, and are quite anxious to receive such instructions, and to improve their privileges now in the best possible manner.

I can visit only about 30 cells each evening, and spend about five (5) minutes with each man, who is supplied with a small lard lamp hanging in front of his cell, and learns to write upon his slate being furnished with a copy by his teacher.

Respectfully submitted,
ISAAC LEWIS, Teacher.

AUBURN, September 30th, 1859.

To Rev. B. I. IVES, Chaplain, &c:

Sir—I have been engaged in the prison for a month and a half, my report therefore embraces only that period.

The whole number of men under my instruction, is one hundred and twenty. I have in arithmetic, 59; in reading and spelling, 41; in writing, 20.

The men under my care manifest a good degree of interest in their studies, and are making very commendable progress.

Yours, very respectfully,

CHARLES COOTES,

Teacher in south wing of Auburn prison.

AGENT AND WARDEN'S REPORT.

STATE OF NEW YORK :
OFFICE OF AGENT AND WARDEN OF CLINTON PRISON. }

To the Inspectors of State Prisons of the State of New York:

Gentlemen—In conformity with the laws of the State of New York, it becomes my duty to submit to your honorable board a report, annually, of the condition of the institution you have committed to my hands.

Having been in charge of the prison but three months, I shall be guided in my report, for the first nine months of the year, by the books and records of the prison.

Since the last annual report of the agent and warden of this prison, a contract has been made for the labor and service of from fifty to one hundred convicts, to be employed in cutting nails and manufacturing iron in all its various branches. From one hundred and fifty to one hundred and sixty convicts are now successfully employed upon those contracts. Some portion of the iron made by the contractors is now manufactured into nails by convicts before it leaves the prison yard, and the contractors have agreed to increase the number of nail machines, so as to work all the iron made by the prison contract into nails. This will give employment to a class of convicts that hitherto have remained unemployed for the want of suitable work.

The shoe contractors have been working successfully their full complement of men, for the last three or four months, and are well satisfied with the result.

After supplying the contractors with all the men required upon their contracts, quite a large number of men remained. These have been constantly employed in the improvement of the grounds in the yard, in repairing and erecting buildings required for the prosecution of the business, either of the State or contractors. Since the 4th of July we have made large and permanent repairs upon the State building, erected a large woodshed, 160 feet long, a night guard post and nail factory, of stone, seventy-five feet long by thirty-five feet wide, all of which has been done by convict labor.

There are now some ten or twelve nail machines in successful operation in the factory, and the number is soon to be increased to thirty or more.

Upon being advised that the prison under my charge was to be enlarged, I immediately put upon the work of enlargement all the force that could be employed to advantage, and have kept them so employed, and shall continue to do so until the enlargement is completed; when that is done, we shall have a large number of convicts that should be put upon contracts, which, if properly done, would add materially to the cash receipts of the prison, and would go far to relieve the State Treasurer from a monthly contribution, which has been a long time levied upon it, to defray the current expenses of this prison.

The sanitary condition of the prison will be presented in detail by the prison physician, which shows that the convicts have enjoyed excellent health, and speaks well for his skill and attention. I feel that I should not fully discharge my duty to others, if I failed to bear testimony to the diligence and fidelity which has marked the conduct of the officers generally, in the discharge of the various duties in connection with the prison. And none will feel that any wrong or injustice is done them, while I award to our venerable chaplain the meed of commendation so richly deserved, for the untiring and unceasing efforts put forth for the elevation of the unfortunate and erring men committed to his charge.

The last Legislature appointed a commission to settle certain claims of Mr. Jacob D. Kingsland, iron contractor at this prison. The commission met in August last, and after a session of a few days adjourned for ten days.

The claim of Mr. Kingsland appearing to be so enormously large, and so much different from what I had expected, and having but just entered upon the duties of my office, and being comparatively ignorant of the whole matter, in the meantime, under the advice of the Attorney General, I concluded to revoke my assent to the arbitration, and served papers to this effect on the parties concerned. Two members of the commission, however, met, (the chairman of the commission not appearing or taking any further part in their deliberations,) and after a hearing of the case awarded damages to Mr. Kingsland, amounting to some $59,000.

According to the counsel I have employed in the case, I am of the opinion that this award is null and of no legal force, if for no other reason than the fact that one of the three commissioners was not present at the hearing. But there are still other legal points involved, as well as equities of much importance both to Mr. Kingsland and to the State.

Perhaps it is not proper, standing as I do, for me to express an opinion on the merits of this case. The question has become a legal question, and must abide either the decision of the courts or the action of the Legislature. I have consulted the Attorney General, and his advice to me is to report the whole matter to the Legislature for its action, rather than to incur the hazard and expense of a lingering process in the courts. The claim of Mr. Kingsland, together with the testimony taken, the award and the minutes of the proceedings of the commission, are on file in the Comptroller's office, and this matter, though too voluminous for my report, is at all times at the disposal of and within reach of your board and of the Legislature.

The following statement exhibits in full the financial condition of this prison for the year ending September 30, 1859, and will show in detail what employment has been furnished by me to the great body of convicts who would have remained unemployed. In it will be found the earnings for the year, and whether contract or otherwise, and whether available and productive, or unavailable and unproductive, but which were still necessary, and will be a saving of money in the future.

I am, gentlemen, yours, &c.,

Agent and Warden of Clinton prison.

CHAPLAIN'S REPORT.

To the Honorable Board of Inspectors of State prisons :

Gentlemen—I am again called upon to report the completion of another year's service as chaplain of this prison.

A minute account of the various incidents which have come to my knowledge in my intercourse with State prisoners, would furnish materials for a report too long to be here inserted ; but the general routine of duties performed may be expressed in few words.

The services of public worship have been maintained, books taken care of and distributed, the sick visited, the school continued, advice and counsel given to all as circumstances permitted, and the correspondence of convicts with friends conducted as usual throughout the year. All the services of my department have received attention, and as time and health would allow, I have labored to promote the moral and religious interests of all who are here imprisoned.

Since my last report one hundred dollars have been expended in the purchase of books for the prison library, and ten thousand pages of tracts have been given for the use of the convicts by the American Tract Society.

The behavior in the chapel has been quiet and orderly, and in its services many appear to be deeply interested. The singing, as performed by the choir, is quite acceptable. Those who perform this service convene for practice one hour before the time of public worship ; but few are so familiar with church music as to sing according to rules ; but the singing adds interest to the chapel services, and could not well be dispensed with.

I am happy to be able to state that my ministrations here appear to be kindly received, and I can but believe that they have been and still are attended with much good. But experience teaches me that many difficulties attend the reformation of convicts. This is evident to all who become acquainted with their history. Many of those in prison are in mental capacities feeble, and their intellectual acquirements are extremely limited. They have but little knowledge of the first principles of morality, and they have led vicious and immoral lives. It can then be clearly seen that labors for the reformation of such men are not as successful as similar labors bestowed upon persons in other and better circumstances ; but by the instrumentalities employed, much good is done even to those who have wandered so far from wisdom's ways. Some, I have no doubt, become humble and sincere christians, while others are so fully convinced that " the way of the transgressor is hard," and that guilt and shame attend a vicious course of life, that they will not again expose themselves to the penalty of the laws. The institution of schools, the reading of the scriptures and other good books, the plain and faithful teaching of the gospel, exert a controlling and salutary influence upon the minds of many.

During the past, as in previous years, I have endeavored to discharge my duty conscientiously, and in that manner and at such times as I judged would be productive of most good; but the means employed to benefit the imprisoned have not been attended with that success which I have earnestly desired. It is true that the convicts generally have been as peaceful and quiet as in former years. There have been no combinations to rebel or to resist the prison authorities. Professions of amendment have been as numerous, and resolutions to lead honest and peaceful lives, have been as often expressed as formerly; but still the number is comparatively small who appear to have been "renewed in the spirit of their minds." They furnish no very satisfactory evidence that they cordially obey the gospel. They regard it as an unfavorable time to become pious in prison, and consequently, like many other sinners, wait for a more "convenient season."

Another fact by no means pleasing to state, but perhaps I ought to state it, that a greater number have been returned to prison a second time during the past than in any previous year. This is undoubtedly owing in part to the difficulty of finding employment, but mainly to the facilities afforded for obtaining intoxicating liquors. The language of many a convict is, "Had it not been for liquor I should not have been here, but at home with my family, or with parents, brothers, sisters and friends." I would that the vendors of intoxicating drinks might listen attentively to the inspired language of the prophet: "Woe unto them that are mighty to drink wine, and men of strength to mingle strong drink; woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that putteth thy bottle to him and maketh him drunken also."

However darkly shaded the characters of men may become by their vicious practices, there is still encouragement to labor for their highest and best good. There is power and love in the gospel sufficient to subdue the hearts of depraved men, and to transform them into the Saviour's image; and as this gospel is to be preached to "every creature," there is encouragement to proclaim it within prison walls as well as in more favored places. Its success in all cases is owing to the divine blessing attending its ministrations, and with that blessing even the inmates of the prison will be truly reformed both in heart and life.

With grateful feelings to the worthy agent and to the keepers and other officers of the prison, and with sincere thanks to your honorable board for the courtesy and kindness you have shown me, and with thanksgiving to God for His protection and blessings during the past year, this report is respectfully submitted by

Your obedient servant,

ROSWELL PETTIBONE, Chaplain.

TEACHER'S REPORT.

During the past year, the school for the instruction of convicts, with few interruptions, has been continued.

Since my last report, I have given instruction to one hundred and seven different convicts in spelling, reading, writing and arithmetic, and have seventy-five now on my list as learners. Of this number, thirty attend to reading, writing and spelling; and thirty-two to reading and arithmetic; and sixteen are learning to read. A considerable number of those instructed, pursue their studies with commendable industry, while others are dull, fickle and irresolute.

But, considering their past and present advantages, and the habits of life they have formed, they improve as rapidly as can be reasonably expected. The facilities for writing are those only which are furnished by the slate and pencil; but in this manner some have learned to write a fair hand. I have devoted more time to those learning to read, than to any other class, for the man who in this age is unable to read, is certainly an object of pity.

In teaching arithmetic, my main endeavor has been to make the pupils well acquainted with its fundamental rules.

CLINTON PRISON, Sept. 30, 1859.

HOSPITAL, CLINTON PRISON, October, 1, 1859.

To the Inspectors of State Prisons, of the State of New York :

GENTLEMEN : In conformity with the requirements of the law, I would respectfully submit my annual report of the sanitary condition of this prison, for the year ending September 30, 1859.

Annexed will be found the tables giving the statistical information required from my department. Those will exhibit a state of health highly encouraging, and as favorable as it has ever been my pleasure to report. The number admitted to hospital, and excused from labor, will be seen to be in small proportion to the whole number of convicts in charge.

We have been free from epidemic and pestilential diseases.

By referring to the table exhibiting the mortality of the prison it will be found that but two deaths have occurred—one from accident, and one from disease.

Aside from the healthiness of the location of this prison, and of the employments in which many of the convicts are engaged, doubtless much of the favorable state of health is owing also to the pains taken in the food and clothing of the convicts, the cleanliness and ventilation of their cells, and of all the departments of the prison, and to that general care in those things in which all the officers have a share, and in which I am happy to say they have co-operated with your physician to the ends secured.

I am, gentlemen, respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

JABEZ FITCH, Physician.

FIRST ANNUAL REPORT

Of the Superintendent of the State Lunatic Asylum for Insane Convicts.

To the Hon. Board of Inspectors of State Prisons, State of N. Y.:

In accordance with the by-laws of this institution, the following report is respectfully submitted :

On receiving my appointment, Nov. 6, 1858, I came here by instruction from the Board of Inspectors, to prepare the building for the reception of patients. I found almost every part of the building unfinished, and that many alterations were necessary for safety and economy, and I endeavored, according to the best of my judgment, to carry out what the original design seemed to imply, and to finish and furnish the asylum, in as plain and economical a manner as consistent with the plan and beginnings which I found, and the use to which it was to be devoted.

As the building is one of the best in the State, and the institution not a temporary thing, but designed to be permanent, I thought proper to finish and furnish it in a substantial manner, judging that this, though more expensive at first, would, in the end, be the wisest economy. And as many persons are unacquainted with the requisites of an insane asylum, and may not consider that the first expense of a permanent institution of this character must be great, I wish here to state that I have had no desire or intention to exceed the design for which this great humanity was founded, or to carry it on more expensively than requisite for a curative establishment of this kind—maintained by a State whose policy has always been so liberal to her benevolent institutions.

The new buildings are nearly completed. The chapel is a fine room, forty by twenty in size, and finished to the roof, and will, no doubt, when completed, add to the interest now manifested in religious exercises, and will also make a fine music room for the patients to sing, and for others who are so kind as to sing to them.

The hospital and rooms connected with it, are very commodious, and will furnish us with the best accommodations in the care of the sick, so that we can remove them from noisy halls, and place them in quiet and comfortable quarters.

The dead-room, store-rooms and bakery, the carpenter's shop, barn, soap house, ice-house, and solitary cells for the violent and noisy insane, all add to the completeness of our establishment.

Many of these patients, from the long duration of their disease, and the apparent loss of their mental faculties, seemed incurable ; yet some whose cases appeared most hopeless when they entered, are recovering. Others are so far improved, as to be useful in performing simple duties, and have become capable of taking part in games and amusements. In all but three or four, there has been decided improvement, and in a few cases, this has been very gratifying.

This first year has been one of prosperity. No patient has died ; one attempted suicide, but without success. There has been but little general sickness, which may be partly attributed to the perfect ventilation of the building, partly to the strict observance of cleanliness, and to the healthy kind of food provided.

The regular performance of manual labor, a certain number of hours each day, has been useful in promoting physical strength, as well as mental health and tranquility. Gardening, especially, has proved very beneficial, and the fruit and vegetables raised, have promoted their health and enjoyment.

We have endeavored to make each patient so comfortable and satisfied as to forget, in some degree, that he is a convict, and to gain his confidence and friendship, without which, our efforts for his improvement would be unavailing.

Reading, writing, and arithmetic, and games of cards, dominoes, draughts, quoits, &c., have interested and amused them, and assisted in developing their mental powers.

Illustrated books, papers and pictures, have instructed and pleased those who are incapable of reading; and those who have been willing to try to learn, have been taught in reading, writing and ciphering.

We have felt the importance of variety in amusements and recreations, so as to develop the various faculties, both of body and mind; and for this reason we hope soon to add to our resources a bowling-alley and small gymnasium.

The discipline may have been, of necessity, more vigorous here than in other institutions of this kind, from the previous habits of the patients, though a few hours' solitary confinement, or the fastening of the hands together, have, so far, been all the punishment required.

I think we have as yet, hardly sufficient data to arrive at correct conclusions of the cause of so much insanity among convicts, though I believe we may safely express the opinion that the crimes of which many of them are convicted, were committed under insane influences.

I would earnestly suggest to all who have the opportunity for such study, that common humanity and our duty to our fellow men, require us to make more thorough investigations into the connection between crime and insanity, and particularly to learn whether an hereditary taint or some organic disease may not frequently have been the incentive to crime, instead of a depraved moral nature.

It is desirable that the legislature should, as soon as may be, pass the bill reorganizing the asylum which was left out by the Senate last winter owing to the crowd of business on the last days, so that we may open the fourth hall and be enabled better to classify and arrange our patients. On account of the crowded state of the other halls, several of the patients now sleep in the fourth hall without the usual attendants.

The appropriation of the last legislature is ample to support the asylum, though should any considerable number more of patients be sent to us, a small appropriation would be required for their support.

I have entered upon my duties of Superintendent of this new charity of our State, with feelings of deep responsibility, and with an earnest purpose to devote whatever I may have of experience, of skill, or of science, to carry out its noble design. I have been greatly aided and encouraged by the courtesy, kindness and counsel of the Inspectors, and by the cordial co-operation of all the officers of this institution.

With the enlargement of our building and our increased means of relief for our patients, we shall enter on the duties of a new year with renewed energy and hope, trusting that the blessings of Divine Providence may so favor us that this institution, which is the first of its kind, may become worthy of the confidence of a wise and enlightened Legislature who have so liberally provided for that most unfortunate class in society, the convict insane.

We wish to make our grateful acknowledgments to Rev. Mr. Ives, who has kindly conducted for us religious services on Sabbath afternoons, and with such simple earnestness and rare adaptation to the condition of his audience, that it seems as if the most darkened minds must receive from it some gleams of light and hope, and all have manifested its beneficial influence, by their remarkable quietness and decorum during the service.

We are also greatly indebted to Mr. Nelson and Mr. Flagler, for their patient and repeated efforts to teach our patients to sing. The hour of singing, Sabbath afternoon, has been anticipated with much eagerness, and has proved both pleasant and profitable. We are also under obligations to the Second Presbyterian Church for the use of their melodeon during the last summer ; to Mr. James Seymour, for pictures, plants and shrubs ; to Rev. Henry Fowler and Mrs. Horace Cook, for pictures ; to Goss & Williams, and Hon. Edwin Morgan, for books ; to Dr. Sylvester Willard, Horace Cook, Esq., and Mr. Hanison, Dickinson, and others, for plants and shrubs ; to Mr. Daniel C. Goodrich, for thirty or forty loads of fine sods for our grounds ; to Knapp & Peck, Auburn, for newspapers.

Several benevolent persons at a distance have expressed a desire to give to the asylum, for the benefit of the patient, books, pictures, etc. John Bliss, No. 26, Burling-slip, N. Y., Newcomb & Co., 524 Broadway, Albany, and Goss & Williams, 97 Genesee street, Auburn, have kindly consented to receive and take charge of any such donations and forward them to the asylum.

The accompanying tables contain all the statistics of interest connected with the asylum.

Respectfully,

EDWARD HALL,

New York State Lunatic Asylum for insane convicts.
